It seems that Zink came into the city on the first of July with selling. On his return home, one of his oxen, ue by the great heat, fell down in the road and to all appearance was about to die .-In order to save the entire loss which must result from the death of his ox in this manner, Zink borrowed a butcher's knife and out the animal's throat. It does not seem to have bled much, however. Then taking the meat to Brooklyn Center, he there sold three of the quarters and the hide, and sold the other quarter to a citizen of Cleveland. The Bristol Temperance Girls have had to suffer for their cause. A suit has been commenced in our Gourt for damages against five of the principal parties concerned in the sacking of the grocery of D. The Plowing Match went off in the forenoon; and the Mowing was done in the afternoon. Three teams and plews were entered for premiums. The Gill Plow, a plow manufactured by Boardman and Reed, of Newton Falis, and a plow manufactured by Isaac Fellows, of Youngstown. The groond was fallow, very hard and rough and well calculated to try the merits of any plow. All the plows worked well, but the Committee awarded the first premium to the Boardman and Reed Plow. I did not hear which obtained the second. The Boardman and Reed Plow had, however, the advantage of the best team and ploughman. The team was owned by Mr. Charles Brown, of Bloomfield, and the ploughman was a Seotch man, unsurpassed in the calling.

In the afternoon the Mowing Match attracted the most athention. There were eight Mowing my 12
